

Do you care about ending domestic violence and elder abuse in your community? Are you part of a faith community looking to make a positive social impact?

JOIN US IN Staying Safe with Faith

About Our Program

Safe Havens has been working at the intersection of faith and abuse for the past 30 years. Staying Safe with Faith, our local program in Greater Boston, uses a public health process to nurture conditions in which everyone can live free from domestic violence and elder abuse.

Participating congregations undergo a series of four online trainings to learn about domestic violence and elder abuse. They also have an opportunity to build partnerships with other faith communities doing this work and local service providers in their community, forming part of a coherent, coordinated community response for people who experience abuse.

Are you interested in Staying Safe with Faith?
Express your interest or join our upcoming training cohorts free of charge here.

We work with diverse faith communities in Greater Boston to:

Connect faith communities and service providers to increase survivors' access to support services.

Educate faith leaders on how they can prevent abuse and respond to people experiencing violence in their congregation.

Organize a coordinated community response to abuse with critical faith community buy-in.

Support all people who experience abuse, so no one has to choose between their faith and safety.

The 4 trainings will cover:

1. Domestic Violence & Elder Abuse
2. Trauma & Response Skills
3. Building Partnerships between Service Providers & Faith Communities
4. Prevention & Next Steps

Help us end violence in our communities!

Donate today to support us in ensuring no one has to choose between their faith and safety.