

Do you care about ending domestic violence and elder abuse in your community? Are you looking to make a positive social impact?

JOIN US IN Staying Safe with Faith

About Our Program

Safe Havens has been working at the intersection of faith and abuse for the past 30 years. Staying Safe with Faith, our local program in Greater Boston, uses a public health approach to empower everyone to help respond to domestic violence and elder abuse.

Participants engage in a series of four online trainings to learn about domestic violence and elder abuse. They also have an opportunity to build partnerships with other faithful people doing this work and local service providers in their community. Together, we can form a community-based response for people who experience abuse.

Are you interested in Staying Safe with Faith? Express your interest or join our upcoming training cohorts free of charge here.

We work with diverse groups of faith-based people to:

Connect faith-based groups and service providers to increase survivors' access to support services.

Educate faithful people on how they can prevent abuse and respond to people experiencing abuse in their community.

Organize a community response to abuse with critical faith community buy-in.

Support all people who experience abuse, so that no one has to choose between faith and safety.

The 4 trainings will cover:

- Domestic Violence & Elder Abuse
- Trauma & Response Skills
- Building Partnerships between Service Providers & Faith Communities
- Prevention & Next Steps

Help us end violence in our communities!

Join us in ensuring no one has to choose between faith and safety.